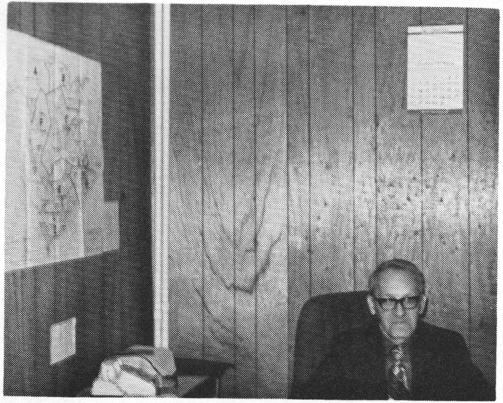
Superintendent's Message



Dear Graduates:

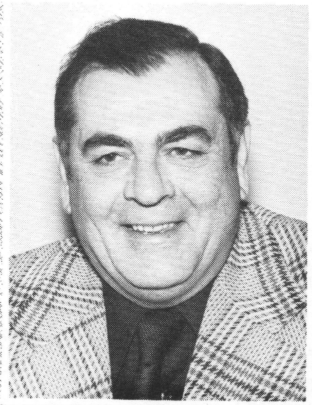
You are now reaping the sweet fruits of 12 years of work. Despite the many difficulties inherent to student life and the allurements of freedom and ease, you have persevered and reached the goal. Congratulations!

More important than the actual knowledge has been learning to learn and learning to be. For your education will continue as long as you live. In an ever-changing society, you will have to adapt, revise your work methods, discover and use new techniques and keep abreast of so many unforseeable events. I believe you have been equipped to meet all such challenges.

I hope you will be well-informed, honest, and proud Canadian citizens. May I wish you success in all your future endeavors.

Bro. Roland Pepin

Principal's Message



To the Graduates of '75:

It is with pride that I express to you, on behalf of the staff of Restigouche Senior High School and myself, a deep appreciation for the co-operation we mutually enjoyed over the past two years. It is through the understanding and tolerance of both you and the staff that we have been able to enrich ourselves socially and intellectually, in spite of the adverse conditions of rotation. I am also appreciative of the academic climate you have helped our outstanding staff create. And also, the response you have given to the unselfish way our teachers have given of their time to help you meet both your curricular and extracurricular needs.

I cannot help being optimistic for the future of our new English High School in C'ton. Your suggestions about the type and quality of education for the future, coupled with the calibre and dedication of our staff, will provide a sound foundation to ensure students of the future the opportunities for a high degree of academic excellence. It is hoped, as citizens in the World of Tomorrow, you will continue to make your presence felt by providing input characteristic of responsible citizens.

Best personal wishes, and congratulations to you and your parents on your graduation day.

According to the scoreboard, the R. S. H. S. Girls' Basketball team was not too successful this year.

Yet, judging by the improved team work and fun bus trips, the team was a great success, in the most important areas of the game.

The team was most fortunate to have Jamie Day as a coach this year.

Good luck to Linda Alford and Brenda Flann as they leave R. S. H. S. this year!

The 1974-75 basketball season proved to be another successful one for the R. S. H. S. Bruins. Through hard work and long hours, coach Brian Flann and the players produced one of the strongest teams this school have ever known.

Most of our players will return next year, except Jack Cavanaugh, Dave Targett, and John Ayles.

On behalf of the Bruins, I would like to express thanks to our coach, Brian Flann, and Ass't, Coach, Douglas Adair, who, with their fine coaching abilities, led us to many victories, I would also like to thank our loyal cheerleaders and fans for their support.

Entertainment Committee

Throughout the high school year, the Entertainment Committee strove to create and promote entertainment for the students of R. S. H. S. Overcoming many difficulties, they provided an atmosphere which enabled students to meet with and enjoy the company of their classmates. Believing we have achieved this goal, we, the members of the Committee, would like to offer sincere congratulations to the graduates.

Square Dancers

This year, from the profits of two square dances, we were able to make gingham skirts for the gals, and shirts for the guys. We had problems, because of Mr. Lawrence's large driver's education class, and also because of the teachers' problems, but we organized our own practices twice a week. When we went to press, no definite plans regarding competitions we were made; but, all in all, we are becoming pretty good square dancers!

Graduation Committee

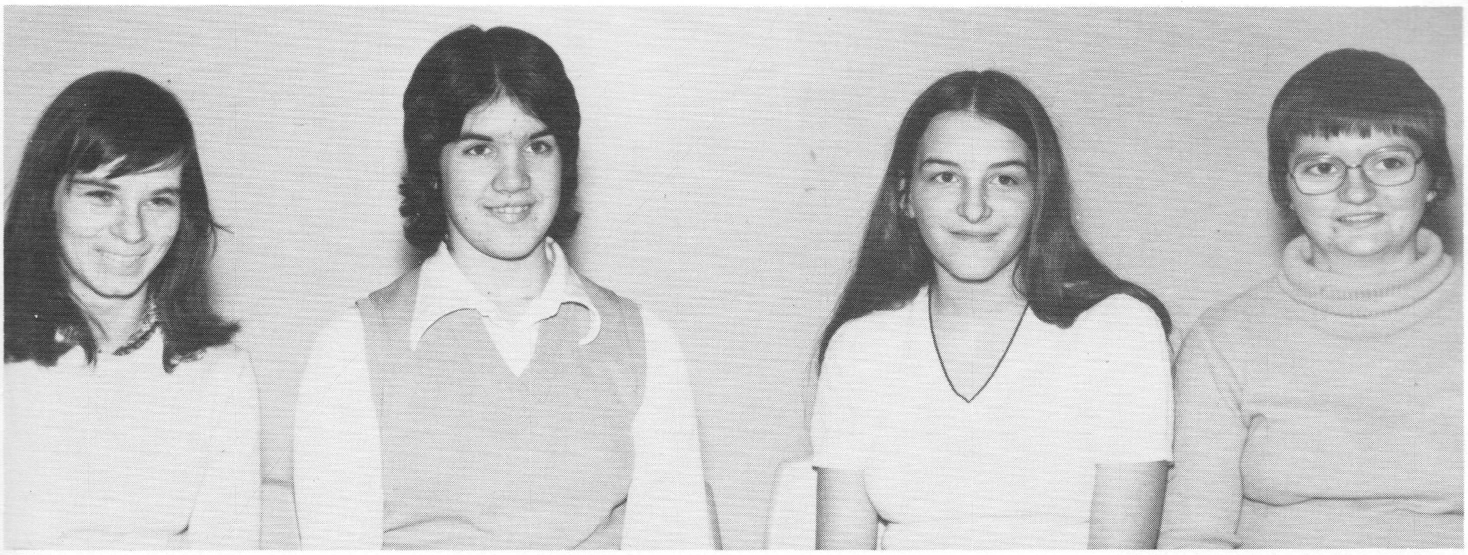
Fund-Raising Committee



SEATED: Linda LeBlanc, Mary Beth Cormier, Sylvia Ferguson, Debbie Maisey.

The Fund Raising Committee has substantially added to the finances of the student government this year. The canteen facilities provided by the committee covered all extra-curricular activities. The major operation of the year, the chocolate bar drive in November, was a sweeping financial success. More important, the participation of the student body was commendable, which proved that student interest can be stimulated and directed toward improving the social functions of our school.

President.

President's Message

During the past year, we, on the student council, have tried to establish a foundation for future student governments at R. S. H. S. We created a new election system, based on our new constitution. Apart from a few minor setbacks, we feel that this system is the best solution to student government at our school.

We are fortunate to have had a good deal of student participation in most activities this year, and much of the credit for this goes to the many faculty members who gave so much of their time and effort to extracurricular activities. We can look back on a terrific winter carnival, exciting sports events, and all our classroom hours with pride and satisfaction.

As we, the graduates, leave R. S. H. S. this year, we take with us many happy memories, and much valuable knowledge. It is my sincere hope that our graduating class has improved the standards at Restigouche, and that we will always look back on our years here warmly. In addition, I would like to offer a sincere wish of "good luck" to those who remain.

Valedictory

Good morning, honoured graduates, honoured parents, honoured teachers and administration, and honoured guests. I have received so many requests regarding the contents of this address. Some said "make me laugh," some said "make me cry," some said "make it stirring and invigorating." And all said "keep it short."

Graduation is, granted, a time for laughing and crying. FREEDOM can be exhilarating and frightening. It is impossible to look back at our rich memories of the past twelve years without some sadness or wistfulness. But it is also impossible I hope, to look ahead without some feeling of excitement and anticipation. What I would like to question is the basis for this anticipation--the goals for which we will be aiming.

As of today, we have finished our secondary education. Are we therefore all well-educated? An article in Life magazine (May, '69) stated the purpose of a high school to be rather, to arouse curiosity and interest in the student, to give him or her the incentive to go on to higher education. I know that our high school, with all of its bells and examinations, has still succeeded in arousing curiosity, for I, and I know all of you have each day heard and taken part in energetic and lively discussions about many controversial subjects. But this incentive to go on to higher education, which we all hopefully possess, to some degree, does not necessarily point to university, for even a B.A. is no more a guarantee that we are educated than is a high school diploma. Higher education is obtained through conversation. It is obtained through reading. It is obtained through experience. It is obtained through curiosity to know everything about everything. It is freely accessible to anyone with an open mind who is willing to listen as well as talk.

But how will all of this education which can be obtained without more formal training, keep us alive--feed, clothe, and shelter us?

Bluntly, it won't. So must we all, therefore, go to a university or a school of technology, and buckle down to a nine-to-five job, forget the living, and merely exist? Definitely not. It is possibel to find interesting jobs. Any job is interesting if we try to do it well, if we take pride in our work. Today's automated, computer-run society needs more hand-made articles, more people who really believe in what they do and who are not out merely to see how much reward they can get for how little labor. And if we are to take pride in our work and enjoy it, we can afford to be fussy in deciding exactly what it will be. With easily accessible government loans today, we can do anything. We must aim for high ideals. But what exactly is a "high ideal?" Is it a doctor, a lawyer, a politician? Is it a high-paying job? Is it a respectable job? It could be, but this should be an afterthought. Our goals should be based upon our interests and principles, not our worship of the almighty dollar. How much unrest would be nonexistent if people were satisfied with their incomes! Most people can manage on what they earn. Who needs more than that? The fight for survival used to be the most important worry of man--but now, it is the fight to survive more comfortably. So we get well-paying jobs, buy time-saving appliances, and haven't got the resources to occupy ourselves constructively during all the time we save. So why not be satisfied with a lower quality of existence, but a higher quality of life? Or, as the Canadian newspaperman Richard Needham says," ... THERE ARE MORE IMPORTANT THINGS TO DO THAN MAKING MONEY. I THINK IT'S BETTER TO PRAY, OR SING, OR MAKE LOVE, OR COMPOSE A POEM, OR WRITE SOMEONE A PLEASANT LETTER, OR PICK SOME FLOWERS AND TAKE THEM TO A GIRLFRIEND, OR JUST SIT ON A ROCK AND THINK. PERHAPS OUR CITIES WOULD BE BETTER CITIES IF PEOPLE EARNED LESS AND SPENT LESS, IF THEY THOUGHT MORE AND LOVED MORE."

But this job, which we love and enjoy trying our best at, is not our whole life. No matter how much or how little money we earn, we will still have probably about fourteen free hours each day. Creativity is what will fill these hours fully--imagination in living, doing exactly what we feel, learning how to entertain ourselves--these are what give life to a nine-to-five existence. And who says that your career needs to be nine-to-five? You can make it fit your own way of living. Work hard overtime all winter in an isolated northern mine, and spend the summer touring Europe. Get together with a group of friends, save your money, and start a communal farm. Work overseas, so you can travel and work at the same time. Change trades if you are unhappy; U.I.C. won't let you starve! And if you do find yourself with a daily routine job (which you enjoy, of course) don't let your "relaxing" hours find you constantly in the clutches of that great manipulator, the television screen. Be imaginative. There are millions of things to do, see, and appreciate. And if these things coincide with what ordinary, normal people do, fine. And if they don't, fine also. You are the person you have to please. When you are gone, life will continue. So get out and make your own fun, no matter who disagrees. I'm not saying that we should try to be different on purpose--just that we shouldn't consciously try to be the same! Or, again, in the words of Richard Needham, "BE LOYAL TO YOURSELF, YOUR OWN HEART, SOUL, TALENT, PERSONALITY, THE PRINCIPLES YOU HAVE DEVELOPED, THE WISDOM YOU HAVE ACQUIRED."

But these things are for the future. Today and tonight, the past is what we will be thinking about. We have all been together for so long it is doubtful that any of us can leave without some part of someone else in our personalities and hearts. In the working world, or at university, we will never be so close to everyone as we are here and now, after having all grown up together.

So let's keep the happy memories and the energetic ambition of this day forever. And remember, you have your own lives to live, live them. You have your own contributions to make, make them. You have your own stars to follow, follow them.

And everyone take care of each other tonight, eh?

Editors' Message

For most of us, 1974-75 was a great year, filled with colour, excitement, adventure, and creativity, and this yearbook will preserve those days forever. We believe that this book captures the true spirit of Restigouche High.

During the past three years, we have all put roots into Restigouche High, and it's going to hurt a little when these roots are pulled up. But, let's look hopefully toward the future, while never completely losing touch with the past. Now that we are finally ready to make our places in the world, let's continue to develop and learn, expand our horizons, and keep optimistic forever, because, yes, it really is our world.

Eric Savoy

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everybody who contributed to the production of this album. We are very grateful to the merchants who advertised in our book, to our layout people, to the school secretaries, and many others who were so generous with their time. A special thanks goes to Corinne for being such a great advisor, and to Cindy for looking after the money.

From time to time, look over your yearbook, and remember what a beautiful year it really was. This collection of photographs has a very special meaning for us, and we hope that it will remind you of the way things used to be. Best of luck.

To the Graduates – my Friends

This is our world.
How we remember our good times!
They were filled with dreams, hopes, and wishes.
So much have we come to learn.

In the days we shared together,
Sometimes wishing they would last forever.

How our cries of laughter will be in these halls forever!
Unfortunately, for us, these days have all run out.
Ready for the open world? I myself don't know.

Will we ever meet again, and sometimes get together?
Or will our paths not cross again, is this goodbye forever?

Right now, these questions we cannot answer,
Life awaits us, we must fulfill it.
Do you think we can make it? I pray we will.
